About ASLI

ASLI stands as the premier national voluntary membership association dedicated to Senior living and care. Our diverse membership includes professionals from various sectors connected to Senior care, such as healthcare, hospitality, NGOs, home care providers, service providers, developers, operators, and corporations.

By 2050, one in every 5 Indians will be a senior citizen. Remarkably, approximately 45% of India's urban Gen S population belongs to the top three wealth quintiles. This not only underscores the social imperative of focusing on the aging population but also highlights a significant economic opportunity. The senior care ecosystem now offers a spectrum of care models, ranging from independent living, assisted living, home care, dementia care, to meticulously tailored solutions encompassing medical, physical, spiritual, financial, and leisure needs.

ASLI is committed to addressing the needs of our aging population by establishing communication platforms that educate seniors about the diverse models of structured care available and the essential principles of Quality care, Service, Transparency, Ethical standards, and Business excellence, exemplified by our esteemed members.

We actively foster industry growth by organizing regular industry meetings and programs, aimed at enhancing operational standards, sharing best practices, and raising awareness about the senior care sector. ASLI has also been instrumental in organizing three International conferences on Aging in India since its inception and is actively engaged in industry advocacy initiatives, collaborating with various government bodies at the union and state levels.

Chairman Note

Dear Participants, Sponsors, and Supporters,

I would like to extend my deepest gratitude to each of you for contributing to the remarkable success of the 5th ASLI Ageing Fest. Your active participation, enthusiasm, and dedication were instrumental in orchestrating an enviable event that not only addresses the current challenges within the senior care sector but also establishes a foundation for a promising future.

India stands at a critical juncture in its demographic evolution, with the senior citizen population projected to more than double over the coming decades. By 2050, this segment is expected to reach 347 million, accounting for 21% of the total population. This demographic shift not only offers significant opportunities but also underscores the pressing need to rethink and transform the ways in which we support and care for our aging population. The Ageing Fest acted as a catalyst for meaningful discussions, fostering collaboration amongst all stakeholders, government, investors, and businesses committed to transforming India's care eco system for seniors.

During the insightful sessions, the private sector was identified as a key player in addressing the rising demand for senior housing and healthcare, balancing profitability with social impact through strategic investments and partnerships. Speakers spoke about how tailored financial products like retirement plans and annuities are essential, and also voiced the need to build a sustainable care ecosystem with trained caregivers. Technology, or AgeTech, emerged as a transformative force, offering innovations like wearable health monitors, AI caregivers, and telehealth.

I would like to extend my heartfelt appreciation to McKinsey for their invaluable contribution as our knowledge partner, to JLL for their significant role as our research partner and for the valuable insights shared in the report, and to Times of India for their support as the event's digital partner.

I would like to thank our esteemed sponsors — Ashiana Housing, BridgeHealth, Jagriti Dham, Primus Senior Living, Antara Senior Care, Elements Senior Living, Serene Communities by Columbia Pacific and Paranjape—for their unwavering support. Your dedication to promoting senior well-being and challenging prevailing aging stereotypes is truly commendable.

May the success of the 5th ASLI Ageing Fest stand as a testament to our collective commitment to building a future where seniors are not only cared for but also celebrated for their contributions, vitality, and unique styles. Together, we are shaping an industry that transcends merely meeting the needs of our aging population, to creating an energizing eco system which impacts longevity and promotes graceful aging.

Thank you once again for your steadfast support and participation.

Warm regards,

Rajit Mehta

Chairman, Association of Senior Living India (ASLI)
